DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-26 are presently pending.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-19 and 26, drawn to a method to prepare alpha-viral replicon particles that encode 2 or more antigens, classified in class 435, subclass 320.1.
- II. Claims 20-25, drawn to a method to immunize a human or animal comprising the administration of alpha-viral replicon particles, classified in class 424, subclass 93.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are patentably distinct. Inventions are patentably distinct if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions are not disclosed as capable of use together, and have distinct method steps to obtain distinct effects. Group I requires at least the step of introduction of alphaviral replicon nucleic acids into permissive cells for infection, while Group II requires administration of alphaviral replicon particles to a human or animal to obtain an immune response. These require distinct considerations as to the administration or introduction steps, which would provide the required effects. Moreover, because of the distinct considerations due to distinct functions and structure required of such steps, it would pose a serious burden on the Examiner to search and examine both inventions together.

Art Unit: 1633

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

If Applicant should choose the invention of Group II:

Applicant is required to choose a specific virus, protozoan, bacterium, or cancer, from the 6 viruses of claim 22, the protozoan of claim 23, the bacterium of claim 24 or the 10 cancers of claim 25.

The species are independent or distinct because viruses, protozoans, bacteriums and cancers have distinct etiology, owing to their distinct structure. Each of these structural/functional effects require distinct considerations. Moreover, each of the viruses have distinct structure providing distinct life-cycles, and the cancers have distinct effects in the tissues of the body. Each of these distinct structural and functional effects are such that the search of any two specific species together would pose a serious burden on the Examiner.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 15, 20, and 21 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Art Unit: 1633

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
